involves eight killings. Four African-American D.C. residents who were charged with a total of eight murders as leaders of a District of Columbia drug gang known as the Newton Street Crew. This case involved a triple slaying in which the killers wrapped the victims' heads in duct tape before shooting them at close range. Despite authorization to seek the death penalty by Attorney General Barr in 1992, the government did not ultimately request the death penalty at trial. McCollough participated in five murders. Goldston founded the gang. Hoyle ran the gang. The defendants and victims were all African-Americans.

law enforcement officer victim - a young black man from the District of Columbia who struggled with and shot to death a police officer. Attorney General Reno required a capital prosecution for the cross-racial murder of a white law enforcement police officer despite the U. S. Attorney's initial decision that the death penalty not be sought. This authorization marked the first time in the post-Gregg era of capital punishment that the Attorney General required a capital prosecution in a federal criminal case despite the initial opposition of the United States Attorney. Subsequently, the defendant entered a plea of guilty and was sentenced to life imprisonment.

a gang known as the "Cash Flow Posse" charged with various racketeering crimes, including five murders and other assaults. The motive was a dispute over gang territory. Garcia was a 29 year old Colombian. All the killings but one predate the effective date of the '94 act. Garcia was the only capital defendant. He was charged with personally carrying out all five murders. Garcia was offered a plea to life, signed a Rule 11 plea agreement but the plea agreement broke down during the colloquy in court. The United States then decided to seek the death penalty. However, the district court dismissed the capital count (a racketeering murder) because of an insufficient "Commerce Clause" nexus. 68 F.Supp.2d 802 (E.D. MI 1999). The government decided not to appeal.

the disappearance of an alleged rape victim before Gabrion's trial, as well as the disappearance of her 3 year old child and three men. The bound victim was found in a lake, part of federal land, the Manistee National Forest (USFS). Attorney General Ashcroft required a capital prosecution in this 18 U.S.C. §1111 case. All involved are white. After a remand to the district court for the presentation of additional evidence on the issue of subject matter jurisdiction, the Sixth Circuit found subject matter jurisdiction. After a grant of sentencing phase relief, the government sought rehearing en banc, which resulted in reversal of sentencing relief. A 28 USC §2255 motion is pending.

a drug conspiracy, racketeering, murder CCE prosecution. Tommy Edelin faced the death penalty alone among many capital eligible defendants, including his father. Edelin, 30, was charged with ordering 14 murders and attempting to have another dozen killed during the 1990's, in his role as the so-called "drug kingpin" of the "1-5 Mob". Murder for hire is alleged as an aggravating circumstance. The gang was charged with the shooting of a D.C. police officer and in another incident in which three people were shot while attending a crowded neighborhood picnic. One victim was shot several times while returning from a prom with his girlfriend. Two teenagers were targeted by mistake on their way to a church Christmas Party. Edelin was acquitted of this double killing by co-defendant Bostick. Much of the violence stemmed from a turf battle with members of the "Stanton Terrace Crew," which is now essentially out of business after numerous members were killed or convicted of first-degree murder. Edelin was convicted of four murders, including paying a hit man to kill a 19 year old who allegedly robbed an associate. 11 jurors deliberated 3 hours before voting for a life sentence. The capital charge was a conviction of murder for hire of a 14 year old who allegedly robbed an associate of Tommy Edelin. Edelin was born as a result of a brief sexual encounter to a convicted drug addict. He had an abusive, deprived, depraved childhood in a crime infested neighborhood. This was the first death penalty trial in the District of Columbia since the last execution in 1957. D.C. voters rejected the death penalty in 1992.

three murders, a carjacking and an interstate kidnapping. The defendants were high on crack when an argument erupted with Fell's mother and a male friend. The male friend's throat was slashed by Fell and Fell's mother stabbed to death by Lee, the co-defendant. The two then carjacked a 53 year old grandmother at a supermarket. Crossing into New York, they told her to get out and she attempted to run into the woods. They followed her and allegedly killed her by kicking her. The defendants both made incriminating statements. They were arrested three days later in Arkansas. All involved are Caucasian. Lee committed suicide in 2001 by hanging himself in jail. Authorities said it was an accident. Attorney General Ashcroft rejected a plea agreement stipulating life in prison, and required a capital prosecution. The Attorney General also rejected a bench trial. The court declared the FDPA unconstitutional. 217 F.Supp.2d 469 (2002). This ruling was reversed by the Second Circuit. 360 F.3d 135 (2004). The direct appeal was denied. 531 F.3d 197 (2008). Kenneth "Supreme" McGriff was the leader of a notorious Queens-based drug gang, "The Supreme Team," that operated in the 1980's. He went to prison after pleading to a CCE and receiving a 12-year sentence. Upon his release he resumed drug trafficking. The case also features a Murder, Inc. connection involving a film McGriff was producing with the soundtrack provided by several well-know rap artists from the label. McGriff and co-defendants David Crosby and Emanuel Mosley were charged with two RICO murders that took place in 2001. The government alleged that the murders were committed in retaliation for a murder of a McGriff associate by one of the victims, Eric Smith (who was a rapper a/k/a "E Money Bags"). The second murder victim, Troy Singleton, was allegedly killed to prevent him from retaliating for the E Money Bags murder. Both victims had a reputation for street violence. Both were carrying loaded handguns at the time of their deaths. A third defendant, Nicole Brown, Crosby's girlfriend, was charged in the E Money Bags murder only and is alleged to have acted as a look-out, video-taping the victim, and/or to have directed the shooters to the victim's location. The government's theory was that McGriff hired Mosley to provide the actual shooters. It is not clear whether any of the defendants were on the scene. Victor Wright was charged with the double-murder of two men in a suburb of Baltimore, Owings Mills, Md. The motive alleged for one of the killings was that the victim was suspected of being a cooperating witness in a drug investigation. The second victim just happened to be there. The crime took place in the parking lot of an up-scale apartment complex where McGriff maintained a stash house. The Government filed "Protective" Notices of Intent to Seek the Death Penalty as to five defendants, but withdrew as to four. The Court declined to strike the notice as filed late. Only McGriff faced the death penalty. All involved are African-American.

Date of DP notice 8/16/2006

a 2005 gun murder-for-hire of a cooperating witness/informant in a drug (cocaine) prosecution. Lecco asked Burton, who asked Friend to help kill the female victim who was shot and beaten to death and buried in a shallow grave. Attorney General Gonzales required a death penalty prosecution. Lecco and Friend were sentenced to death at a joint trial but a new trial was granted by the trial judge when the government revealed that a juror was under federal investigation for child pornography. 634 F.Supp.2d 633 (SD WV 2009). Friend entered into a plea agreement approved by Attorney General Holder and testified against Lecco, who was sentenced to life in prison. Friend was sentenced to 35 years, Burton to 30 years. All involved are white.

the murder of a five year old child, who was in Special Education, on federal land, the Schofield (US Army) Barracks. There were bruises on the child's arms, chest, knees and thighs, as well as a small laceration on her back. The father, Naeem Williams, confessed to hitting his daughter on numerous occasions. His wife, Delilah Williams (the victim's stepmother), 21, confessed to having knowledge of these beatings. The child's room had no mattress, no blankets and no furniture, as all had been removed by her parents as a form of punishment. Blood spatters could be seen throughout the residence from whipping with a belt. Naeem faced the death penalty. Attorney General Gonzales required a capital trial. Attorney General Holder rejected a plea agreement.
